About the Online Workshop: "Online learning is not the next big thing, it is the now big thing." - Donna J. Abernathy. Our experiences with teaching and learning during the worldwide lockdown, resulting from the Coronavirus pandemic, have quite evidently showed that online teaching, online learning and virtual classes are the need of the hour. With this realization and the undaunting spirit to impart knowledge, despite the limitations of the present time, we are organizing an online workshop on research methodology to help students, research scholars and faculty members of various disciplines. This workshop would broadly cover such topics as research problem, hypothesis, research designs, sampling techniques etc. I am sure that participants will enjoy the workshop and will learn a lot from the learned and experienced speakers.
